Where Seniors Stay Young

Brock House Society - 3875 Point Grey Rd, Vancouver BC V6R 1B3 - BrockHouseSociety.com
BrockHouseGallimaufry@gmail.com

Deck those halls...and some of you maybe doing just that...with boughs of holly...that you purchased at this years Brock House Christmas Fair.

For those of you who did attend, you had the chance to experience the cozy warmth when entering Brock House and view the Christmas decorations strategically placed inside. In fact you may have gone past the very colourful scene that is on the cover of this year's winter program.

The house is a great place at this time of the year to just linger and catch up with old friends that you haven't seen all summer or to attend the programs and events leading up to Christmas. (Be aware that we are closed from December 24 to January 1.)

Then there will be a flurry of activity on January 3 as you sign up for all of the winter programs that you have been researching.

Oh and by the way don't forget to renew your membership. It is still the best deal in town at $60.00 per year or $1.25 per week. Less than a cup of coffee at Starbuck's.

So what are we offering in the New Year?

Well, there are our usual no fee based programs such as the Travel and Lecture series along with a Leadership and Women Series starting on January 11 with 3 prominent guest speakers: MP Joyce Murray, Dr. Patricia Daly and Inspector Colleen Yee.

Other no fee programs include The STAR Program on February 6 about Point of Care technology and a very topical Cannabis Talk on March 13 when with our windows wide open Philip May talks about legalization and other issues.

There is still room in the following fee based programs but sign up soon and don't be disappointed.

-Fabulous Origins of English words with Graham Forst, January 11

-Meditations class with Kelly Maclean, January 15

-Seattle Art Museum, January 17

-Robbie Burns Celebration, January 24

-Vancouver Opera, La Bohème, February 24

Also as we head into the New Year and extended low light conditions, don't forget the Walk and Be Seen program. For those of you who want a WBS kit or more information contact the office.

Now I have made reference to the Brock House Society being good value for money. However as the Finance Committee drew up the budget for 2019 there was some concern expressed as to our ability to finance the upkeep of this Heritage House in the near future and the cost of the programs that we run. This is in spite of a very generous donation made by a BHS member towards the cost of the expensive elevator upgrade. We are carrying forward some more expensive renovations into the New Year and we are looking at creative ways to finance these. One is to form a Fund Raising Committee that will be struck in early January, so if you do have experience and wish to volunteer in this worthy cause, then please contact the office.

Oh and donations made in order to assist in this endeavour are all very much appreciated.

Oh and by the way we will be returning to our tried and tested format for next year's Summer Fair.

Make a note.

Brock House Society Summer Fair
Saturday, July 13

So as we enter the New Year with a sense of cautious optimism may I take this opportunity to wish you all:

A VERY HAPPY AND HEALTHY 2019

A Bonus from the Esther Birney Series!

December 20 - 10:30 -11:45 - Halpern Room

Mary Davison will dazzle us with a recording of James Joyce reading an excerpt from Finnegans Wake. It will be a puzzle with words for you to enjoy. Those of us at Brock House are probably the last generation to have been schooled as James Joyce was. Look at the following quotes and recall when and where someone hurled similar remarks at you. Get a laugh out of the tricks he pulls.

"Northmen's thing made southfolks place but howmulty plurators made each one in person? Latin me that, my trinity scholerd."

Now decode this doozy:

"Anna was, Livia is, Plurabelle's to be."

2000 points and a triple A+ if you divine how these words key into the larger narrative. Mary Davison, has taught at Stanford, UC Berkeley, and McGill.

Paul Cech will be the Convenor for the Laughter is the Best Medicine series, starting in January.

Please send any funny videos/stories/ jokes to

Paul (e-mail: pcechis@gmail.com) and he will coordinate the content.

We hope to have this series once a month.

The Onyx Trio was formed in 2014 out of a deep desire to explore and share the repertoire of the last one hundred years. Ever since Claude Debussy composed his remarkable Sonata for Flute, Viola, and Harp in 1915, many great composers have tried their hand at this unique and colourful combination of instruments.

All three musicians are fixtures of the BC musical scene and can be frequently heard performing with the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra, Vancouver Opera Orchestra, Turning Point Ensemble, Aventa Ensemble, and Vancouver New Music Ensemble.

Brock House Orchestra

The orchestra commenced rehearsals again in September after the summer break. Conductor Jeffrey Tseng has us working hard on our new repertoire which includes a symphony by Mozart and Johann Strauss' Die Fledermaus Overture, which is challenging but also exciting to play.

We have welcomed several new players recently and the Begg Room is starting to burst at the seams! However that means we are just getting to know our neighbours a bit better!

Our concert season is under way and by the time you read this, the orchestra will have played at two retirement homes in November, Amica at Arbutus Lodge and Revera-Crofton Manor where we entertained large and enthusiastic audiences. There are no outside play-outs planned for December but we have bookings for January and as far ahead as April of 2019.

The BHO wishes all members a musically happy Holiday Season.

Brock House Chess Club

Many thanks to everyone who came to play a friendly match with the Bonsor Seniors' Chess. We fielded eight players who each played two games. It was an entertaining and enjoyable event. Final score: Bonsor 12 - Brock House 4.

Everyone appreciated Brock House's hospitality with cookies and coffee for all. Many thanks to Brock House for supporting this friendly event.

The Brock House chess players meet every Tuesday and Thursday at 1:00 to 3:00 p.m. in the Meyer room. All are welcome to come and play or learn and watch or share their experience.

Reiki Encounters

By

Lisa Anne Smith

I like to consider that I have a fairly open mind and am naturally curious about many things that may seem illogical or downright unbelievable to others. Such has been my foray into the realms of Reiki.

A few years ago, I experienced my first Reiki group training session with a former yoga teacher at Brock House. I recall that the session was very profound. At one point I shed tears. I felt a noticeable tingling in my skull and a distinct feeling of heaviness. That night I slept for nine hours straight, quite possibly the deepest, most relaxing sleep that I have ever known.

Reiki, in the words of a guidebook provided at the session, is “a natural method of energy balancing”. “Rei” can mean spiritual intelligence. “Ki” can mean life energy (the same as “Chi” in Chinese). Thus, Reiki is often described in the west as “spiritually guided life force energy”.

A few weeks ago when my husband Doug casually asked a friend who was retiring what her plans were, she handed him a business card. I was delighted to learn that our dear acquaintance, who I’ll call Veronica, is also a Reiki Master, Spiritual Counselor and healer.

I had always intended to follow up on my earlier initiation to Reiki and quickly got in touch with our friend to book a session. I could literally feel Veronica’s energy as soon as she came into our house. Our golden retriever Sunny certainly tapped in and was all over her from the start. We retreated to the bedroom where I lay on the bed and breathed an intoxicating scent of rosemary essential oil.

I closed my eyes and soon fell into a deep state of relaxation. No tears this time around, just a very noticeable sense of wellbeing, most welcomed as I have recently been diagnosed with illness. Veronica began with my feet, performing a gentle manipulation called “grounding”. Her hands slowly increased in warmth to the point where it felt as if she had washed and dried them under a hot tap. From my feet it was up to the head, then down through the body gently and slowly, lingering here and there as energy flow needs dictated. I began to notice colours—distinctively bright, pulsating white lights, sometimes so bold I was tempted to squint despite having my eyes shut. At one point I was so enraptured I spontaneously murmured “wow”! Later in the session I experienced two great fields of violet purple—my favourite colour—which slowly filled my entire spectrum. At one point I saw what I can only describe as an entity of sorts—a large, glowing head with a gentle and healing disposition.

I lost all track of time but was vaguely aware that the session must have lasted over an hour. We returned to the living room where I fairly gushed about all that had occurred. I felt better than I had in many days—rejuvenated, optimistic and quite utterly in awe. We finished with an interesting discussion about many things related to Reiki and other universal forces.

Veronica is truly a gifted person. She is genuine in every respect and I will be excited to delve further into Reiki explorations under her guidance. As Veronica says, she is simply the conduit for her “patient” to undertake the healing process. It is said that we all have the capability, but she is truly one of the Masters.

We suspect that many of you may know who “Veronica” is but we aren’t able to share details in The Gallimaufry. Lisa and her husband Doug have therefore very kindly offered to answer questions. Please feel free to write to them at:

Christmas Craft Fair, 2018

Wrap-up

Gifts and Games

On Saturday, Brock House was a beehive of activity as the doors opened to welcome the community to the annual November Fair. The rooms were filled with a variety of shopping options and volunteers were ready to assist in many areas as shoppers made their way throughout the festively decorated interior.

Thank you to all for generously donating items for this occasion.

I send special thanks to the enthusiastic, tireless and fun loving volunteers in the rooms featuring Gifts/Games, and Treasures (new to us this season).....

Our team - Chick B, Rhinda F, Joy Y, Klaus K, Ilsa E, Eileen H, Roberta J, Kathleen H, Emily S, Margaretta S, Virginia O'C, Christine T, Anne H, Val V, Kay L. - much love and huge thanks to all. Lets team up again for the Summer Fair!

*Fondly,
-Joan Krombholz, Convenor*

Thank you

After getting off to a rocky start and delays in organizing some areas, BHS members and volunteers stepped up and we had a very successful Christmas Fair. Visiting with entering guests revealed how much our Point Grey neighbors appreciate and enjoy this event.

All of our Conveners, as always, pulled together and produced a special day, I want to give a special thanks to Joan Krombholz for coming in and rescuing Gifts and Games and one of the best years ever in sales. I also enjoyed working with Polly Spurr in organizing the food for guests and volunteers. I appreciated working with my Co-Chair, Peter Phillips - we do need to work on finding a permanent Chair for the Christmas Fair so we can have the long term planning required.

*-Stan Hohnholz, Co-Chair,
Christmas Fair Committee*

Yarn & Needle Crafts

Our group had a very busy and extremely successful day thanks to all who came out and purchased our products. Special thanks go to our hard working crew for making so many unique items and manning the booth on Saturday. Our much appreciated team members: Maribeth Ruckman, Joanna Walentowicz, Betty Gunter, Dee Loucks, Diane Goodale, Lenore Hampton, and volunteer Dawn Klassen.

Jewelry

The Jewelry Committee would like to thank all donors who contributed to our success at the Christmas Fair. We could not have done as well without your generosity! Our regular buyers missed browsing at our booth this summer and they showed their interest by buying our stock at an unprecedented rate. We had great volunteers, a massive amount of jewels on hand and by pricing everything reasonably we managed to have our best result ever!

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy, Healthy and Prosperous New Year.

Brock House Woodworkers

Thanks to all the generous and gracious support from Alan M, Alex L, Assefa K, Barry S, Bill F, Bob D, Bob H, Carol C, David M, Eric F, Hannas vS, Jj L, Gordon H, Petrus A, Robin N, Ron N, Steve N, Susan L, Wally M, and Zig H the Brock House Woodworkers had another enjoyable and successful Christmas sale. The overall sales of wooden crafts for the day was around $2000. The first sale was a large wooden toy truck about two and a half feet long that was suitable for storing many other toys. The second item was a $25 corner cupboard followed by a $5 wooden stress ball and a small $21 table. The final sales were a $2 bookend and a $20 coat rack. Most sales were in $20 to $40 range. The highest single item was $120 for a turned wooden bowl, followed by the truck and a strum stick banjo-like musical instrument. The highest listed individual bundle of purchases was $200 for a mixed assortment that included two balls, two bowls and a table. Bookstands, cutting boards and bookmarks were popular. Wooden pens, wooden boxes, Kleenex box covers, small wine racks, corner cupboards and chop stick holders were successful items. Birdhouses were also good but people were too fearful to make bat houses a popular item even though the bats are renowned for their ability to remove many noxious insects and reduce the risk of insect vectored diseases. Perhaps they would go well at a Halloween Fair.

The four items that I expected to do much better in the sales were the wooden plate covers for electrical switches, the bird feeders, the small riding horse for young toddlers and the dulcimer. We were told that the feeders were a bit heavy but the main limitation seemed to be the condominium by-laws that prevent people from putting up feeders even though the presence of feeders and birds are known to be beneficial for human mental health. The riding toy looks like a rocking horse without legs so many people that might have appreciated it did not see that it had wheels that allowed a toddler to balance and ride it around. The two items that people asked about that were not in the inventory were a tree stand for drying washed plastic bags and a Lazy Susan.

If you have questions about the workshop or just want to ask us about your own special project needs, woodcrafts or a general tour of the shop please contact the Workshop Convener at the Brock House workshop on Thursday morning or e-mail wramey@mail.ubc.ca with "Brock House Projects" in the subject line.

Christmas Fair at the Cafeteria

A few challenges came up but everyone pulled together really well.

Gratitude and thanks to our team:

1. Activity Room - Special thanks to Karin Gan and Nassrin Farquharson for minding our volunteer snack room
2. Lindsay Salt - Special Thanks for her understanding and comradeship as a team player
3. Dawn Arndt - Special thanks for staying extra and being a trooper
4. Thanks to Diane Kika, Dellie Lidyard, Grace Ng, Bettye Knight, Sue Tate-Smith, Katharine Crarer, and Margaret Hunter who all did a great job.

Also thanks to Kaz our wonderful chef and Trudy Yates (who arrived early to help Kaz). Also thanks to Nesa and Stan for overseeing things.

A very special thanks to Tessa Gillespie for organizing the Cafeteria Volunteers while I was away.

For the Cafeteria food:

We had 36 egg and turkey sandwiches; 90 chicken pot pies and 60 quiche.

Mince tart three full trays and hot cider, tea, coffee, and water jugs.

Overall we made $ 1600+. We had a few challenges such as heat from cups, scheduling, policing.

An extra special thanks for Sabine Bartels-Tolkien and her daughter for providing two cakes - gluten free cheese cake and gluten free apricot homemade jam cake which sold, I am told, almost immediately.

All in all I wish to give thanks to Kaz and all the volunteers for a great job.

Holly and Cedar at the Christmas Craft Fair

Thank you to members Elizabeth Barthel, Bob Boyd, Don Forsyth, Liane Langton, Lorna Romilly and Adele Tremblay for volunteering to help with preparing and manning the Cedar and Holly Booth at this year's Fair! Being the "first face" to visitors, our volunteers offered smiles and cheer to all those who attended. The holly clippings were particularly "berriful" this year and sales went very well. Thank you to Brock House members and guests who supported our sales and got beautiful trimmings for their homes! Thank you to Judy, Lee, Sophie, and Stan for their guidance and support (for my first year as Convenor!) and to all the staff and assistants that day. Thank you to the Vancouver Park Board for dropping off the clippings to enable us to offer this booth at the Fair. Thank you for the extra donation this year of 30 beautiful little poinsettias that were very well received and all sold out! And to the wonderful member who dropped off a little Christmas Cactus that sold almost immediately! All much appreciated!

Harpist Donna Hossack is a long-time Brock House member. She "has enjoyed a long and illustrious career in Canadian music....As a young musician, she freelanced with the National Ballet of Canada and the Canadian Opera Company.

"During the 1950's and '60's Golden Era of Radio and Television, she played on such popular CBC shows as C.G.E Showtime, A Date with Frosia, and O'Keefe Centre Presents, while also enjoying a long gig as the original harpist on CBC's The Friendly Giant." The story below is based in part on Friendly, Rusty and Jerome and, as a huge fan of the show during my childhood, I was delighted to receive it. Thank you for the memories, Donna!

The details of Donna's "varied, prolific and stellar musical career spanning four decades" and "The Harpist and the Harp" appeared in the May 2014 issue of Upbeat, a Vancouver Musicians' Association publication. -Editor

"The Harpist and the Harp"

A story about Donna Hossack by her daughter, Anne Rosenberg

Other kids' parents were teachers, lawyers, engineers; professionals who suited up for work. They were, to my eight-year-old self, interchangeable, all of a piece. They could just as well have typed all day. My mother was different. My mother didn't type; my mother played the harp.

Other kids' parents came home to a six o'clock blur of supper and TV and homework. At six o'clock, my mother sailed from the house, lipsticked and perfumed, black skirts swirling around her, to play an opera, a ballet, a show.

One day, another kid asked, What's your mom do?

"Uh..." I paused, licking my lips. "She's a... harpist."

Blank looks all around.

"She plays the harp," I continued, "in an orchestra... operas and ballets and... stuff."

"Oh."

"And she's on The Friendly Giant - the TV show."

A chorus of "Yeah?" and "Really?" and "Cool!" followed. After all, what did they care about operas and ballets? The Friendly Giant was her claim to fame.

During a long run of A Chorus Line or Evita or Oklahoma, she'd let me sit in the orchestra pit, perched on a stool beside her. Leaning the harp against her shoulder, her fingers threading through the bronze strings, she seemed to me not my mother, but someone else, another creature entirely. At those moments, I wanted to sound the harp myself, to feel the pull of one of those long, rising glissandos.

Most of the time, the harp presided over the living room, mute, its intricate carvings and gold leaf accompanying the more mundane: chairs, tables, couches. But in the days before a concert, my mother would practice fiendishly, throwing herself into a frenzied marathon of Carmen or Tosca or some complicated modern piece that lacked any discernible melody. The tick tick of the metronome would drone on, relentless, proceeding through the house and up to my room, invading my dreams. Occasionally, after many repetitions of a difficult phrase, the trickle of notes would suddenly cease, giving way to a torrent of expletives. From these sessions she would finally emerge, her fingertips cracked and bleeding.

After a concert, she would slip into my room to kiss me goodnight, smelling of faded perfume and, faintly, of cigarettes. "I played well tonight," she'd say. Or, "It didn't go so well this time. Maybe next time," she'd say, her left palm upturned as if to appease the gods of Next Time. "We had a good conductor," she'd explain. Or a lousy one. Either way, it didn't matter to me. She'd welcomed me into her domain, and I, eagerly, stepped inside.

Sometimes I'd pull open the doors of her closet to reveal her "blacks" as she called them: silky black dresses, suspended like noble ladies in waiting, until they could slip away and drape themselves over my mother's graceful lines; black velvet jackets aloft and shimmering, poised for the Carmen or Giselle.

The harp, but for a few nicks at the base from an unfortunate encounter with a camera dolly, endures; its beveled edges announcing themselves, arousing an electrician's curiosity.

"Is that a ... harp?" he asked.

"Well, yes," she said, allowing herself a small smile.

"Huh." He considered this. "Can you play that thing?"

"I used to." She paused to smooth the folds of her skirt.

"Not anymore."

"What did you play?"

"Opera and ballets, mostly. The Nutcracker."

"Oh," he said, his shoulders sagging a little.

"I played on The Friendly Giant. The TV show," she offered, just in case.

"Really?" He set his bag down.

"Can you play that song? You know..."

"Early One Morning?" she asked, plunking herself on the harp bench, her skirt billowing over the sides. The bronze strings vibrated softly, the notes faltered and fell away, reluctant, needing to be coaxed forward – then, harp and harpist slowly loosened as the colours of the notes unfolded, filling the room.

"Wow! How about that!"

He exclaimed, fishing his cell phone out of his pocket and dialing frantically.

"Hey Honey, you won't believe it – listen to this," he said, holding the phone alongside the strings.

"It's the Friendly Giant!" he continued.

"Yeah ... that old TV show with Rusty and Jerome. It's the Friendly giant lady, playing her harp for me right here in her own living room. Ain't it swell?" His voice crept upward in a paroxysm of joy.

Ain't it just.

Yarn and Needle Crafts

We are taking a break till January 7, when we would be happy to receive potential new members in the Meyer Room between 9:30 and 11:30. All experience levels, including novices are welcome. As always, we also appreciate donations of unused yarn, especially several balls of the same type to make larger projects. See you in January.

-Carol Jackson and Dorothy Simons, Convenors

Thank you to the Events Committee for another lovely Remembrance Day Ceremony. I'd like to extend special thanks to Elizabeth Herejk for her very moving presentation.
